Over Five Million Passes Through Turnstiles On July 4th In Racing's Big Business

If press reports, non-official but probably of official inspiration, are to be relied upon, on July 4 over $1,000,000 was bet at each of three different American race tracks. Namely, at Empire City Park, New York; Arlington Park, Chicago, and Hollywood Park, Los Angeles.

At a fourth track, Suffolk Downs, Boston, over $500,000 was wagered.

While precise figures have not been furnished the press, there was another meeting, that at Delaware Park, Wilmington, where the sum bet probably exceeded $300,000.

At Detroit, Mich.; at Ak-Sar-Ben, Omaha, Neb.; at Fort Erie, opposite Buffalo, N. Y.; and at Fairmount Park, opposite St. Louis, Mo., but in Illinois, it is safe to say that not less than $250,000 passed through the machines on the Day We Celebrate.

There were also minor meetings in session at Charles Town, W. Va.; at Wheeling Downs, also in that state; and at Hamilton, O., where it is safe to say that at least $100,000 cash was wagered.

Taken collectively, therefore, at least $5,100,000 was bet at these twelve different meetings on that one afternoon.

As a matter of fact, the sum probably exceeded that by a wide margin. It would not be strange if, when the official figures are turned in and audited, well toward $6,000,000 was bet, if not all of that.

That racing has become "Big Business" with a vengeance this indicates in Capital Letters.

What is more, if the public could have had its way, the sum would have been much larger. Reports indicate that almost everywhere the

Big Severn Wins First Last For Mrs. Register; Claim Closes Delaware

Mrs. Dorothy P. Register's Big Severn, the hard luck 'chaser of the Delaware Park meeting, having twice finished 2nd in 3 previous efforts over the 15 jump in-field course only to miss the winner's purse through interference, came home in good order in the final 2 mile steeplechase there on Thursday, July 3. The 6-year-old son of Big Blaze, a previous show ring hunter, had run 11 times in two years of 'chaser campaigning before breaking his maiden last week. He was in the training hands of Charles R. White.

Bryn Mawr Hound Show To Be Held At Radnor Hunt

Although the Bryn Mawr Horse Show is to be discontinued this year the celebrated Bryn Mawr Hound Show, always known as the National Hound Show, is going to be held and will be bigger and better than ever, due among other things to the inclusion this year of the Penn-Mary-Del Hound Show.

The date will be earlier in September than usual, probably the 13th, and the entry fees will be only $1.00.

It will be held at the Radnor Hunt where the facilities are ideal with a large brand new empty kennel plus thirty box stalls—all for the exhibitors' hounds.

The executive committee in charge of the Bryn Mawr Hound Show comprise the following well known sportsmen: William T. Carter, W. Newbold Ely, M. Roy Jackson, Walter M. Jeffords, Gilbert Mather, J. Stanley Reeve, and W. Plunket Stewart.

There will be classes for bassets, beagles, American, English and Welsh foxhounds, and American bred and English harriers.

Black Dale Awarded Hunter Honors At Pen Yan Show

EDWARD DICKINSON

Black Dale, a son of Rosedale II by Teddy turned in two grand performances to win the class for any hunter ridden by an amateur and the middle and heavy weight hunters at the 1st Penn Yan (N. Y.) horse show. Black Dale is owned by Miss Elizabeth Guther, of Buffalo, who does her own riding and also has in addition to Black Dale another very beautiful hunter, Sylvan Music by Harmonicon.

The show was held as an Independence Day Celebration sponsored by the Penn Yan Kiwanis Club, and drew a large gallery as well as a big entry list. In the amateur class mentioned the red went to L. Y. Ballard's of Elmira, N. Y., Monica by Harmonicon and in the middle and heavy weight class the red went to Mr. and Mrs. William C. Faugh Jr's Judge who later won the open jumping and had the red in the knock down and out.

In this knock down and out the blue went to Robert P. Mage's Harmony whom I believe to be by Harmonicon. In this, three jump-offs were required for a decision in the 1st two of which both Judge and Harmony went clean, but in the 3rd Judge went out on the 2nd jump and Harmony passed this. The 3rd went to Clarence A. Ward's Capella

Nantucket Harriers With Mrs. Trimpi Start Hunting

The Nantucket Harriers opened their 1941 summer season on Wednesday, July 2nd, meeting at the kennels at seven o'clock.

This year there are fourteen and a half couple in the pack, with eight and a half couple of entered hounds and six unentered. Two couple of the latter are drafts from Mr. Gambrill's Vernon Somerset Beagles and three are out of Boisterous by Spokesman, who came from Vernon Somerset.

The pack is in beautiful condition, having spent the winter at Pluckemin, N. J. with Mrs. Trimpi, M. F. H. and we hope this summer will be as good a season as it was last year.

CORNISH HILLS TOP PERFORMER AT CULPEPER

"The rains came" to Culpeper, Va. on July 4 to deluge spectators, horses and riders alike during the entire day, and to turn the show ring and outside course into a sea of mud.

It was the W. Haggin Perrys' Cornish Hills, ridden throughout the Show by Mrs. Perry, who discounted these muddy difficulties and turned in brilliant performances both days of the show to clinch his right to stand in the champion's circle.

Following up his recent Tuxedo Championship, Cornish Hills did it again at Culpeper, while the U. S. Randle's Troop came up from behind to nose out Mrs. M. E. Whitney's consistent mare Spring Hope for the reserve champion honors.

The 7-year-old chestnut gelding Cornish Hills, a handsome son of John P. Grier—Marvell 2nd, turned in a ribbon winning performance in the first jumping class of the day on Friday, that for working hunters. One of the largest classes during the 2-days, it took game horses and riders to put up performances over the outside course at a hunting clip, with the sheets of rain obscuring the fences and making the going more than a little difficult. It was Mrs. Whitney's Spring Hope who won 1st place in this class, with her Bon Nuit 2nd and Strong Tea 4th with with the Perry's Cornish Hills sandwiched between these Llangollen ones in 3rd. In the very next class, that for ladies hunters, Cornish Hills adapted himself to the swamp underfoot and walked out with the blue. His stablemate Ragnarock took 3rd behind Mrs. Cary Jackson's Hunting Pink, with the Randle's Troop 4th.

Cornish Hills was again on top in the lightweight hunter class, but

Top Quality Horses Compete For Honors In Huntington Crescent's Two Days

BY PROCTOR KNOTT

The Huntington Crescent Horse Show, held on the Saturday and Sunday following the Fourth drew a large number of visitors in addition to the regular summer horse show following. Comfortable weather and a holiday spirit combined to make up for several previous years when weather had been uncomfortably hot.

The setting was about perfect—a large grassy oval, plenty of ring-side seats, cool shade, a cove for bathing, all close to the Beach Club where exhibitors were entertained, and last but not least, courteous and efficient management of the show, with events running off with clock-like precision. All in all it was one of the best shows of the summer.

Fourteen-year-old Russell Stewart of Albany, N. Y. proved the sensation of both days of the show by expert handling of his three open jumpers, which brought him the jumper championship with his b. g. My Play Boy, and the reserve with his aged ch. g. Little Chief.

He seems to be on a winning march through the eastern shows, and this weekend chalked up his thirteenth jumping championship. While My Play Boy is considered his most consistent jumper, My Play Girl shows facility over tricky courses without wings, and his Little Chief seems to pick up any blues the others miss.

Saturday Little Chief won the touch and go and the 4 foot class, with the other blue going to My Play Boy. Sunday My Play Boy won the open $200 stake and the knock-down and out sweepstake, with Little Chief placing fourth in the stake class. The final score was 24 points for My Play Boy, champion, and 19 for Little Chief, reserve.

Hunting Notes:-

Artificial Earths Should Be Developed To Protect Fox Supply

BY W. NEWBOLD ELY, M. F. H.

When you come down to it sportsmen in America spend a great deal of time, money and energy in protecting, feeding and caring for their game birds, which they subsequently go out and shoot. Foxhunters, however, often take the fox supply for granted and do little to combat the inroads of civilization—trapping, shooting, digging, etc. Really good natural fox earths are rare and usually widely scattered, and generally are not in the best hunting and galloping sections. To combat this the artificial earth has been developed to a high point of efficiency in England. There are several types. The following was developed by W. M. Wroughton, formerly master of the Pytchley in England, and is the English classic. The simplest way is with 9-inch red drainpipes laid in a trench 2½ feet deep. If the soil is not light and absolutely dry, it is necessary to lay 2½-inch red drainpipes underneath the 9-inch pipes, and through the "dens" to carry away all moisture. The shape of the artificial earth or dry drain must depend on the ground selected, which should be high and dry; but the total length of the dry drain should be nearly 50 yards; the shape is not important. The den or dens should be 3 feet long by 1 foot 6 inches wide, and 9 inches high, built in cement brickwork three courses in depth, and each den must be covered with two or three stone slabs and must not be higher than 9 inches. The entrances, 10 inches wide, must be built up in cement brickwork with two oak squares driven into the ground, these having a rabbit to receive iron gratings for closing the entrances when required.

Another and cheaper way is to use common bricks instead of 9-inch drainpipes. It is necessary to dig out the drain 15 inches wide and 2 feet deep, lay bricks lengthwise, three high each side, the whole length of the drain, with one brick across the top to cover it, which will make the drain 6 or 7 inches wide inside and 9 inches high. To keep these cover bricks in their places lay one brick flat on each side of the cover bricks the opposite way. Make the den 9 inches high, as in the former plan, and also the entrances. This will take forty bricks to the yard. At each entrance is 3 to 4 feet of stonework. The drains are 6 to 7 inches inside width and 9 inches high. Each leg is about 20 yards. They slope up at about a 30 degree angle to the main cross section.

Where each intersects with the middle section there is a den about 18 inches wide. The middle section is about 11 yards long and has a slab covering an opening in the middle. The material used comprises 2,100 common bricks, one load of rough stones, seven slabs, one load of sand, and a little cement.

Another type used in England is in the shape of a horseshoe, and made of 7-inch pipes. Each end terminates under a stump, and the whole length from opening to opening is around fifty feet. Around the toe of the horseshoe is the den, which juts out and is approximately three feet by a foot and a half. In England they are usually made nine inches high, but it would seem that this height could be increased to advantage. Of course, the drain should face south.

There is still another type of English drain the shape of the letter "A". There are six dens—one at the top, one each side at the intersection of the crossbar, one in the middle of the crossbar and one on each side, approximately halfway between the apex and the crossbar. The total measurements of each side is around fifty feet, and the crossbar is eight to ten feet. The top is covered with wood and sheet iron, and the dens are two to three feet square and nine inches deep. 9-inch pipes are used.

In the United States artificial earths have probably been improved to their highest point of efficiency in Mr. Stewart's Cheshire Foxhounds' "country" in Chester County, Pennsylvania. Although all drains naturally vary slightly on account of the topography, we will describe this one which was laid out by our very good friend, that well-known foxhunter, J. Stanley Reeve. 7 to 8-inch drainpipes are laid in a semi-circle. In the middle of the circle is a "room" 18 inches wide, 3 feet long, and 1 foot high. It has a step in it 6 inches high. This is made of brick, stone or cement. The floor is brick set on cinders. This step allows a snug place for a fox to lay up out of any draft. Above this compartment is a trapdoor with a water-tight lid, which should be fixed so it can be easily taken off. In addition, the following precautions should be observed: two ditches are dug back of the earth to drain water; care should be taken that there is no spring too near; joints should not be cemented; male and female tiles should be used, and the earth should not be at the bottom of a large hill.

There are a few things which must be right in any earth, whether artificial or a natural one. The openings must be just big enough to admit a fox; it must be dry under all weather conditions; and it must contain places in it which are free of drafts so the fox can lie up in them.

Huntsman Recalls His First Season Carrying Horn

Three Good Years With West Norfolk Foxhounds From 1902 To 1905

BY WILLIAM THOMPSON

My first real huntsman's position. First I found quite a collection of hounds, drafts from several good kennels with a few old hounds left over from the previous season and former Master, this being Mr. A. Collison's, first season as the Master, although a native of the country and a regular member previously of the Hunt. The country was agricultural and mostly well farmed; very little grass; mostly poor scenting country and foxes scarce, and hounds had to hunt and make the most of things. The country made it necessary to never give up until you were really beaten, as you were never sure of finding another fox; but we had a very good season considering, and the Master and Hunt Committee were so well satisfied they raised my salary considerably, in appreciation; and the next season, 1903-1904, was better than ever, in fact, a record in the matter of sport particularly, and foxes killed. 20½ brace for the country. Hounds kept on improving as we bred, and we raised as many young ones as was possible. Both the Master and I worked very hard in looking after the foxes, both old and young, and keeping in touch all the time with the farmers and promptly looking up and paying damages done by foxes, both real and imaginary, with the result that the season 1904-1905 was the best of all; and in January I was offered and accepted the position of huntsman to Lord Fitzharding, or the Berkeley, and in leaving the West Norfolk I was given a great testimonial of both money and household gifts, both from the Master, Committee and members, for which I was extremely grateful and appreciated it very much. In fact, it made me feel very sorry to leave them.

On one occasion we received word that some of the Christmas House

Although not exactly connected with artificial earths it is interesting to note what a Yorkshire friend of ours sent us in a clipping about Steve Grantham, earth stopper for forty-six years to the Holderness Hunt, who "after making due allowance for the wind and the weather, could with a tolerable degree of certainty, estimate the direction, and the duration of the run, once the hounds had 'found'." The highest number of litters which Mr. Grantham has ever known in a single season was 80.

Party from Sandingham, King Edward's, would be there at the meet; and sure enough, there was a Colonel Brockelhurst (afterward made Lord Ranksborough) there, who was M. F. H. of the Cottesmore at the time. We had thirty-five minutes with the first fox and killed him, a real screamer; then found another and ran for 2½ hours, a twelve mile point to within three or four miles of Sandringham. A real hunt. Sheep saved the fox at finish. He was so pleased he took up a collection at the Royal Dinner table that night: 250 pounds for the Hunt Fund and 10 Pounds for the Huntsman and whips. He told them, and also wrote the M. F. H. that it was the best day's sport he had seen for several years and was coming out with us again, which he did. The funny part was—it was a real wild fox, not a dropped one, and it ran through a country we never hunted at all, a real game preserve, "FOXES NOT WANTED", and took him right home towards Sandingham.

FIELD TRIAL DOG FOOD
A Conditioning Food For Your
Pet or Hunting Dog

FIELD TRIAL is a meat rich, high protein food with a 40% base of Meat and Bone Scrap. All the grains are first baked and then re-ground before mixing. The result of our process is a half meal, half kibbled food in which none of the essential vitamins A, B-1, D, G, or K have been injured by a heat treatment. A highly satisfactory food for hunt clubs and kennels. Free samples upon request.

Maryland Breds Top Virginia In Earnings

Week's Racing Yields
$86,775 To Eastern Bred
Winners In U. S. Racing

The week from July 2 through July 8 saw 106 eastern sired winners coming down the homestretch. Out of eastern bred's total winnings for the week, amounting to $86,775, Maryland's 23 winners accumulated $38,450 to nose out Virginia's 64 winners who accounted for $37,950. New Jersey's 16 winners won purses amounting to $9,050.

July 2. Apparently this was the day for triumphs of progeny of imported sires. Of 21 eastern sired winners, 10 were by imported stallions. Virginia provides a home for 6, Maryland 1 and Massachusetts 1. The remaining 2, who are deceased used to stand in Virginia.

July 3. Virginia swamped other states as 14 out of 21 eastern sired winners came from the Old Dominion. Gino Rex, 5-year-old entire son of Gino, won by a length over a field of 5 at Empire City and his purse of $1,300 was the largest.

July 4. Despite celebration, Nation-wide eastern sired winners did not create any excitement in sensational stake triumphs. Virginia still held a lead for the week, with 15 winners out of a total of 19 scored. Belle d'Amour, the consistent 3-year-old daughter of Espino, won her 5th in 9 starts and thus was acclaimed the outstanding winner at the recent Charles Town meet. She is owned by Raymond Tartiere of Middleburg.

July 5. Maryland's position was enhanced considerably with the cracking win of Dotted Swiss, 4-year-old daughter of Quatre Bras II, when she romped all the way in front of a field of 13 to win the New Castle Handicap, $10,000 added at Delaware Park. The track was mire but she carried Arnold Hanger's colors the whole route without so much as a mud stain. An hour later out at Arlington Park, Petrify took command of the field at the start and kept this position to the finish to win the Lassie Stakes, $10,000 added. The 2-year-old daughter of Identify bred by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt at his Sagamore Farm, received $17,200 as his winner's share. Mr. Vanderbilt's great Discovery has properly endowed his 2-year-old son Baby Dumping, who took his 3rd straight this season in 4 efforts, his 2nd at Delaware Park, going the whole way on top, that Mrs. Arthur White's colors were the lone ones spotless and discernible at the finish.

July 7. New Jersey sires were outstanding as Elmar, 2-year-old daughter of Caruso, galloped home an easy victor at Empire City for her share of the purse of $1,500. At Suffolk Downs, Stingaling, by Sting, defeated a field of 5 3-year-olds in a $1,000 claiming race and Sun High by Neddie, was able to better his record by leading the field home over 1 1-8 miles. Quatre Bras II, whose Dotted Swiss won at Delaware Park Saturday, had another good winner in Lady Waterloo who won the Suffolk Downs, feature, the Nottingham Purse. The 3-year-old filly was well back at the start but entered her bid on the homestretch and won by 3-4 of a length over a field of 6. Winning activity was off due to the fact that Charles Town and Delaware Park closed and many eastern sired racers were in transit to other tracks.

July 8 Eastern sired racers really "came, saw and conquered" the opening day at Hagerstown, as they accounted for 5 winners out of 8. The Harry E. Bester Purse, feature of the day, was won by Rippling On, 3-year-old filly, by Omar Khayyam. The filly gamely took the lead at the start, relinquished it at a half-mile and came again to win by 2 1/2 lengths. Daily Trouble continues to improve his record as he again lead a field home at Arlington Park in a $1200 allowance race. Psychic Bid's son galloped to an easy victory over 7 3-year-olds by 2 lengths, making it 3 wins in 4 starts and defeating the highly touted Jezabel II, fresh from Delaware triumphs.

HUNTERS, JUMPERS AND BREEDING CLASSES

Competition to Stewart's horses was scattered in various classes, the closest being Frank T. Powers' Paddy, which took second in the knock down and out sweepstake and third in the $200 open jumping stake. Oldtimers, such as Mrs. Correll's Lew Dunbar, Pat McDermott's Pretty Good, and Gordon Wright's Thunder Boy were threatening in early rounds of the jumping classes, but lost in the final jump-offs.

The highest jump was 5'-6", the last jump in the knock down and out. The most exciting event was the touch and go, when Little Chief, 14.1, took 16 fences before a fault.

On Sunday Francis Cravath Gibbs' Little Squire, long a ringside favorite, seemed up on his mettle, and came through in the 3'-9" to 4'-6" class to beat the field, clearing the jumps, Mr. Gibbs up, with only a halter on his head.

A great deal of interest was shown in the hunter classes, both on the outside course and in the ring. Mrs. Elizabeth Correll's Dalchoolin took the hunters under saddle class and the conformation class on Saturday, and the hunter championship preliminary and championship on Sunday. Mrs. N. K. Toerge's Camp won the coveted $200 stake, having the edge over Mrs. Correll's Dalchoolin in this class, and also Lord Britain, hunter champion of last year's show, who placed third.

Lord Britain was consistently in the ribbons, but appeared not quite at his best over one or two of the outside jumps. However, he claimed his own in the model hunter class over Dalchoolin, Scotchwood, and Demas. Camp, stood out in his win in the corinthian class over Demas, Lord Britain, and a field of twelve fine hunters, all accustomed to taking blues. He was named reserve champion.

As the hunter championship was awarded to Dalchoolin, a beautiful horse-shoe of flowers in three colors was brought out, and placed about his neck.

Working hunter honors were divided between a number of horses, Mrs. Elizabeth Correll's Scotchwood, who won the Professional Horseman's Challenge Trophy class, with Gordon Wright up, Jack Spratt's Westbury, Joe Donnelly up, winner of the working hunter sweepstake, and working hunters won by J. D. Silberman's Storme Queen, with the owner up.

The saddle horse division was again very small. Edgar F. Luckenbach scored the main ribbons with Lucky Nira and Lucky Queen each taking two blues. Miss Lois Lisanti showed Ebony Lady to good advantage and won a leg on the Silver Chimes Challenge Trophy, besides leading the horsemanship children under 14. The Eastern Breeders Saddle Horse class went to Miss Meade with Ebony Lady placing second.

Many onlookers thought the pairs of hunters, won by the well matched horses of Mr. and Mrs. Obre, Pearl Diver and Pandora, a most interesting class to present, and one that could well be repeated at other shows. George Allers' Platina and Miss Christine Cromwell's Judy Lee made a striking pair of grays.

Crescent Stables' Molly, a chestnut mare, scored in the Trail Ride class, after guessers had the ribbons placed all over the class, as many different types of horses were competing. Substance and endurance were evidently in the minds of the judges. It was the first time this class had been offered at a local show, and was entered in view of the growing popularity of trail rides in New England and New York.

While undoubtedly the juvenile star of the show was Russell Stewart, the more formal horsemanship award, the horsemanship championship, went to William Steinkraus, who took the blue in both the hunter seat and the saddle horse seat classes. The reserve went to Miss Janet Meade, who won the Medal class and the Eastern Breeders' class where equitation counts 50 per cent of the total. The Championship Medal was presented to Mr. Steinkraus by Miss Paula Stone, stage star, who was among the professional talent at the ringside who were asked to present trophies.

Good riding was done at the show by Miss Edith Allers, who won her Good Hands, and Miss Mary Francis Penny, winner of the Maclay class.

Judges were Col. Wm. H. Henderson, for saddle horses and equitation, and G. M. Carnochan and Harvey S. Ladew, M. F. H. for hunters, with all three jointly judging the jumper classes.

Grey Simon Tops Shrewsbury Show At Clareda Farm

BY NANCY GADDIS HELLER

The 1st annual Professional day, June 29th, by the New Jer-Horseman's show was given on Sun-sey shore branch at Clareda Farm, Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Quinn's lovely place in Shrewsbury. Unfortunately the entries were small but this was understandable as the heat was terrific and the ground very hard and dry. However, for a first attempt the show was a very good one.

Grey Simon, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Straus, of Little Silver, and ably ridden by Billy Barry, ran away with every class in which he was entered and of course took the championship. The only other outstanding performance was given by 15-year-old Robert Brann of Montclair, who won the amateur hunter class on his Busy Sergeant. This nice liver colored chestnut, recently acquired from Billy Foales, is only 6 but has lovely manners, jumps well and promises to be a top "hunting" hunter.

The many friends of the genial and well-known Billy Wright, whose death shocked everyone, presented a perpetual memorial trophy for corinthian hunters in his honor, which was easily won by Grey Simon.

The high spot in the afternoon was the exhibition showing of Prince Charming in hand. This top hunter who won every important hunter championship in his day is now 20, but looked and acted only half his years. Mr. and Mrs. Quinn have given him to Joe Maloney, who has ridden him for the last 8 years. He is indeed a "picture" horse, and everyone enjoyed seeing him once more before he goes to Virginia with Joe who is starting a stable there. Over a year ago Joe broke his leg and has had trouble in getting it right again, so it was especially nice when he rode Prince Charming bareback out of the ring at a hand gallop.

Horsemanship classes were fairly well filled, with Miss Elizabeth Pegram of Shrewsbury, winning the championship, riding side-saddle very creditably.

Miss Neva Minton and Arthur McCashin judged the hunters and Samuel W. Taylor the horsemanship.

SUMMARIES

Novice Horsemanship, under 18-1. Elizabeth Pegram; 2. Dorothy H. Ritterbush; 3. Nancy Berckmans; 4. Cornelia Woolley, 5 entries.

Anne Cone's Tattle Receives Tricolor At Springvale

BY WALTER CRAIGIE

Going about her business as quietly as a seasoned veteran, Miss Anne Cone's Tattle, a 3-year-old daughter of War Whoop—Talk, won the combined hunter-jumper championship of the 2nd annual Springvale horse show held at Elmont, Va., (near Richmond) on Sunday, June 29.

The tricolor was based on points won in jumping classes during the show, regardless of whether in the hunter or jumper division.

In reserve, with 9 points versus 10 for Tattle, was Miss Peggy Sampson's Black Boy, ridden by Newton Mayo.

C. Archer Smith's 4-year-old mare, Attagal, stayed in the hunter ribbons consistently. She won a total of 5 secondary awards and was liked by the judges.

Miss Gloria Galban, Charlottesville's 8-year-old sensation, took blues with Miss Grover Vandevender's Trophy in ponies under saddle and Princess in the event for 3-gaited pleasure horses. Princess also placed 2nd in ladies' hunters and 3rd in three-gaited saddle horses.

Dr. and Mrs. J. P. McDonough's Koskowim, a 3-year-old filly by Carlisle—Star Fancy*, won both brood mares and green hunters. There were 17 entries in the latter event. Billy Berry was in the saddle.

The knock-down-and-out stopped at the 6'-0" level after a three-way duel between Black Boy, the McDonoughs' High Tide and Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Bruce's Silver King. There were two fences in the ring, and the first stayed at 4'-0". All three horses had cleared the 5'-6" mark, but both High Tide and Silver King got careless and knocked down the top bar on the small fence. Ironically, both horses then jumped the 6'-0" obstacle. Black Boy had only to clear the 4'-0" fence to win the class.

The touch-and-out was won at 4'-6" by the well-named Speed Demon, owned by T. Benton Gayle of Fredericksburg.

Judges were Alex Calvert of Warrenton and James Lockwood, The Meadow, Doswell, Va.

SUMMARIES

Goldens Bridge Show To Peanuts' Daughter As Champion Filly

A "second to Upperville" in hunter breeding classes, the 7th annual Goldens Bridge N. Y., colt show was held on Sunday afternoon, June 22, in benefit of the British War Relief. In the paddocks of Woodhill Farm, the Golden's Bridge Hunt trophy for the champion colt or filly was won by Mrs. Edward Lasker's brown yearling daughter of Peanuts.

Reserve to the Peanuts filly was a 2-year-old roan gelded son of Roigrey—Alta B.*, named Roi Allenby, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Gilbert. Over 60 horses were in the matinee, wound up with tricolor awards, which came following the exhibition of Twin Lakes Farm Stud's Demonstration and Bimbo III*, splendid sires of New York state.

Demonstration, a chestnut, now a 9-year-old, is a Display horse, from the Black Jester mare Cherry Court. Bimbo III*, also 9 years old, is a magnificent grey horse, brought to this country in 1938 and by the French Biribi, out of Beatrix, by Swynford. Bimbo III*'s color comes from his sire Biribi, by Rabelais.

Mrs. Cary Jackson, of Keswick, Va., and Bruce M. Jenkins, of Darien, Conn., judged the show, placing Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Paterno's Goldenmas* up in the first class, that for thoroughbred mares suitable to produce hunters. In the half-bred suitable to produce, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Gilbert's Hilaria was considered the best.

Demonstration scored two blue winning contests, first when the mare Confession and her Demonstration foal took the blue in the thoroughbred brood mares with foal at foot and later when Ready Girl and her Demonstration foal took the brood mares with foal at foot in the halfbred division. Confession later was awarded the trophy presented by the Twin Lake Stud Farm for the best mare in these classes, with Goldenmas* getting the reserve.

SUMMARIES

Thoroughbred Mares Suitable to Produce Hunters-1. Goldenmas, Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Paterno; 2. Peppermint, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan M. Spencer; 3. Bandetta, Mrs. W. A. Belden; 4. Lady Diana, Mrs. Helen S. McKim, 8 entries.

Judges To Announce Decision Reasons At Timonium

The Timonium Fair Breeders' Show has been announced for Monday, Sept. 8, and Tuesday, Sept. 9. Intended as an educational exhibit and run in conjunction with the race meeting at Timonium, the show, also held to encourage the breeding of better stock of the light breeds, is jointly sponsored by the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society and the Maryland Horse Breeders' Assn.

Matt L. Daiger, Secy., care of Pimlico Race Course, Baltimore, Md., and Humphrey S. Finney, Superintendent, care of Maryland Horse, Townson, Md., can furnish further particulars. Fifteen classes will be held in the breeders' show classifications, with $200 prize money put up in the thoroughbred stallion event, the balance of the classes carrying $100, divided $30, $25, $20, $15 and $10. Special trophies will be given to the best thoroughbred in the show, also best other than thoroughbred.

Col. E. N. Hardy, Chief of Remount will be judge of the halfbreds and suitable hunters, with other judges to be announced at a later date. Entry fees are $2 throughout.

As was done last year, a unique contribution to showing, judges will announce the reasons for their decisions in order to show spectators how the best types are selected.

STEEPLECHASING AT DELAWARE, THE LAST WEEK

Alvin Untermeyer's PHARABANG won the Delaware Park 'chase on July 1. Here they are at the 1st, 1. to r.: John Bosley, Jr.'s ROUEMONT; F. A. Clark's *ROGER O'CAHAN; Kenneth N. Gilpin's FATTY, #3; Morris H. Dixon's SILVER LINING; and the winner, all you can see is Jockey J. McGovern's shoulder #2. Jockey Brooks on FATTY broke a leather at the 2nd jump and rode almost 2 miles on one iron to finish 2nd.

Bayard Sharp's colors were carried to their 1st triumph when MILLRACE won on Monday, June 30. Above he is pictured, #5, with Jockey Roby up, running in the place position back of Alvin Untermeyer's KELLSBORO. Rokeby Stable's *FATAL INTERVIEW, Jockey Magee up, #8, and Groton Stable's SUSQUEHANOCK, F. Maier up, are running in order, as Mrs. Van Lear Black's STROLLING ON did more than lose his rider N. Brown.

Mrs. J. C. Clark's *LITTLE COTTAGE II, #7, is the most consistent $1,000 'chaser of the season. Here the 11-year-old is shown head and head over the last fence, when he bested John Bosley, Jr.'s ROUEMONT, N. Brown up.

Miss Deborah G. Rood's BAHAMA KNIGHT, #5, came home ahead of Mrs. Dorothy P. Register's BIG SEVERN, to break his maiden. This was Miss Rood's 1st steeplechasing win. She is well known in hunter horse show circles.

THE DEVON HORSE SHOW FOUR-IN HAND MARATHON UNIQUE COACHING EVENT

Richard V. N. Gambrill's COACH DEFIANCE II, won the William B. MacColl trophy for the marathon coaching drive through the Radnor Hunt countryside this year. The distance is a full 7-1/2 miles. Condition and general appearance of the team upon arrival and time were considered. Mr. Gambrill's ponies were RECRUIT, FORTUNE TELLER, AUTOCRAT and CORONATION. They rolled the distance in 44:30, some 7 minutes faster than last year. Much of the distance was done on the gallop. Miss Sara Bosley is with Mr. Gambrill on the box.

John F. Cuneo, a newcomer to the four-in-hand game, ably handled his Hawthorn Farms entry of FIERY, FAIRY, FIRE and FUSI, to place 3rd in the marathon despite a running gear failure enroute. Mr. Gambrill and Mr. Cuneo contested for some distance, with first one passing the other, all at a full gallop. The three four-in-hands left the Radnor Hunt club at 2 minute intervals.

Notes From Great Britain

BY J. FAIRFAX-BLAKEBOROUGH

Speculation Continues On Future Of Foxhunting At Conclusion Of War

There are many speculations as to the future of foxhunting when the war is over. Everyone agrees that the sport will be conducted on much less spectacular lines and that drastic economies will be essential. These will be internal rather than external, for damages will have to be paid for if hunting is to continue. It may well be that to reduce the calls on "Damage and poultry funds" big slices of certain countries—portions which have been built up or industrialised, and thus of very little value from a sporting point of view—will be given up. This will not only reduce liabilities but also minimise costs of Hunt administration. It will mean that many packs will be out one day less a week, so that fewer hounds will be required and a corresponding reduction in stables and staff. For some sport in many countries has gradually been squeezed further and further into the centre, and there are those who prophesy that in time foxhunting in many parts will be possible on the hills and moorlands only. It will be otherwise, of course, with the Shires and in such areas as are normally mainly grass. In this connection a correspondent writes pointing out the drastic changes there must be in the future in view of the tremendous increase of ploughland, and the consequent reduction of pace, which has come to mean so much to sportsmen and sportswomen of this generation. He continues:

"I wonder if this is what will really come about:—a gradual reversion to the old methods of hunting as employed by our ancestors of the pre-Meynellian times, with hounds bred for nose and stamina rather than for speed and hunting itself. This was a far more leisurely affair than that to which we are accustomed."

Recent requests to M. F. H.'s to reduce their packs to one-sixth of pre-war strength will necessarily mean fewer and shorter days next season. There was considerable curtailment last season, and since then many hounds have been destroyed and "trencher-feeding" (hounds kept at home by individual sportsmen—a system once obligatory by clauses in farm agreements on many estates) has in many areas eased the position. Not a few four-day a week packs hunted two days a week only in the 1940-1 period, and had a much smaller number of hounds than usual in the field. Some of the hill Hunts rarely have more than seven or eight couples out despite the fact that they have hundreds of acres of moorland to draw. The same hounds are out on each day's hunting (apparently never sick nor sorry), and though such a small number robs the sport of the spectacular, there is no reason why 8 or 9 couples should not in the vale also find, hunt and kill foxes. At any rate the best will be retained as a nucleus with which to start again in happier times.

Still speaking of hunting, the receipts of almost every Hunt in Great Britain show a serious falling off. This was to be expected in view of so many sportsmen being abroad, so many others 'financially embarrassed', so few being able to take part in the sport during the past two seasons, and the uncertainty of the future. Many Hunts, however, succeeded in securing a guarantee which will enable them to carry on until normal times. The Berwickshire, for instance received a guarantee of £739 from last season, and the executive has decided to make their balance of £1,000 last for two seasons. The ancient Ulswater Hunt, despite all economies, made a debit last season. This pack is always conducted on very modest lines. The total receipts for the 1940-41 season were only £384. Subscriptions during that period materially decreased and, as I have said, this is the experience everywhere and must continue so to be.

Recently I have been on a round of visits to training quarters. The changed conditions at these places are as striking as they are depressing to those of us who knew them in normal times. They remind me of the gloom (though intensified) which hangs over the whole personnel and place during those out-of-luck periods when a stable cannot do right, and when week by week passes without a winner. If the feeling of depression which descends on such unfortunate stables does not actually exist at the moment there is, nevertheless, a certain something which is not far removed from it. Most of the lads have gone into the army, more than half the boxes at all training establishments are empty; there are no jovial, carefree sounds coming from the saddlery, no merry voices heard in the boxes at stable-time, when a few old men and maidens and tiny apprentices do the 'bissing' and 'sissing' in comparative quiet. The buoyancy, the stir, the hasty comings and goings, are all lacking. Trainers, at all times subjected to much worry and responsibility, now seem even more strained and careworn. The uncertainty of the future, the difficulties of the present, and the war work which most of them have undertaken, is all telling on them. They have had to part with practically all their lads; they have recently had to destroy, or otherwise dispose of a lot more horses; their incomes have dropped to zero, but expenses have not correspondingly declined. One trainer, who for years has had a hundred or so horses under his care, now has not half that number. Others told me they had lost patrons for whom they have long trained.

They have a feeling that the veterans amongst these patrons will never again own racehorses. Indeed, as one trainer put it, "The turf is in the melting-pot and I am afraid that what will ultimately come out of it will not be as good as that which went in". Not a few trainers have closed down their establishments and some have undertaken other work of National importance but feel like fishes out of water away from horses and the racecourse. It is doubtful if a number of the smaller men amongst these will ever come back into the racing game when the war is over.

Agitation against the continuance of racing continues from the fanatics who continue in Parliament and out of it to whip the oats and petrol wastage dead horse. They never lose an opportunity of girding at racing but M. P.'s get very little satisfaction from the replies of those in Government high places who know the value both of sport and of the thoroughbred. So the game goes on without a great deal of heart in it on the part of those closest concerned, but its continuance does bring a bit of cheer, change and diversion into the lives of thousands of "men in the street". Undoubtedly the Turf has its economic value as our Statesmen have time again pointed out, when they are baited like badgers by the spoil sports and habitual 'anti's'.

"Easy come, easy go" has ever been the way with jockeys and their money, although today we have a level-headed lot at the top of the tree. Most of them have invested their money wisely and the spend-thrift squanderers, who act on the principle of a short life and a merry one, are few. If we run over in our mind the successful jockeys of our early days how many of them we find sunk into obscurity and want after having spent considerable fortunes.

THIS 'CHASING SEASON

For the time being until Saratoga opens its steeplechasing season on August 8th with the running of the Shillelah Handicap of $2,500 added this great sporting game is over. At the big tracks, and all is idle at the half-milers until Bel Air. This year it has demonstrated more clearly than ever that it is a sport in which the public can become keenly interested. The hunt meetings were well patronized and every meeting enjoyed a good class of entries starting with the Carolina racing on up through the United Hunts Meeting at Piping Rock.

Maryland as it so often does, provided the best timber racing. There is something about the Maryland countryside that seems to promote this side of the sport more than even Pennsylvania which is probably second on the timber racing scene for enthusiasm and for developing timber prospects. This year in Maryland, Stuart Janney did an excellent job training and riding Vaunt and Winton and just missing taking the Maryland Cup from the grey veteran, Coq Bruyere of Mr. John Strawbridge who from all his experience and many efforts truly deserved to win the classic.

Belmont and Delaware Park had really great racing and the betting in these races showed conclusively that the public were enjoying the sport and with favorites winning over half of the races there was ample justification for this confidence. The loss of Thomas Hitchcock's great *Annibal was a tremendous blow. The fine horse died running gamely, perhaps it is better to have a hero go in the height of his career, but all the same you cannot see something of fire and courage whose ability is of the best, leaving the game without a real sigh for a great spirit that is no longer here. Mr. Hitchcock will miss the great horse as will many of the sport's patrons.

An exceptional horse has come on this year. He is Paul Mellon's Mandingham who gives every evidence of being one of the very greatest steeplechase horses developed for some years. The Rokeby Stables' patience in waiting for this imported one to recover from a mishap has been well justified. Mandingham is of the best. When he and *Cottesmore hook up spectators are in for a thrill.

Nothing is ever fixed, least of all steeplechasing, which perhaps, is part of its innate fascination, but the prospects for the finale of the 'chasing season at Saratoga look as if they depended on whether this Association will be able to put in an adequate watering system to justify trainers risking their horses on traditionally hard going. The opportunities for good 'chasing are excellent as the Association has planned four stakes to be run every Friday and the nominations that closed in June disclosed a total of 140 horses from 27 stables. This is 29 horses more than was enjoyed last year for the same stakes a 20% increase and approximates the increase of the whole sport through the season. Mr. George H. Bull, president of the Saratoga Association, placed these stakes on Fridays so that they might head the card on each day's program. With the stakes, the Association is planning a total of five steeplechases a week and if the overnight races fill, there will be no doubt that the August 'chasing will be most successful.

The greatest single aid to the 'chasing at Saratoga is water. If the management can possibly find the means to really water the course, owners will have their horses and plenty of them to fill the overnight races as well as the stakes. Horses cannot long run sound on cement hard ground. It is the old story, plenty of horses in the stalls, but not enough to fill the races, unless the turf can be made better than nature and the August sun provides of itself. If 'chasing can just be closed on a successful note at Saratoga, what a fine taste it will leave in the public's mouth as the summer racing season ends!

Ingalls Sisters Star Performers At Kirtland Show

The Kirtland Junior Horse Show, held on June 27-28 at the Kirtland Country Club, near Willoughby, Ohio, has become a real sporting fixture for the young suitable to become foxhunting and jumper enthusiasts of the countryside there. Held this year in benefit of "Young America Wants to Help," a junior division of the British War Relief, only youngsters 18 and under could take part, and these exhibitors enjoyed it all despite the terrific heat.

Misses Edith, Jane and Louise Ingalls won outstanding awards with their hunters and jumpers, as did Timmie White on his faithful Cargo and Joe O'Neill on his fault and out winner, Billy. Miss Jane Ingalls rode her Hunting Call with Miss Edith Ingalls on Shannon Gold to win the pairs on the 2nd day, after Miss Louise Ingalls had ridden Vere with her sister on Hunting Call to win the 1st day. Miss Bernet won a nice class with her Rickey in the ladies', when she bested Shannon Gold, Vere and Miss Mary Thompson's Crispin.

Credit for the success of the show belongs rightly to George Carter, well known riding instructor, who encouraged an adult committee to supervise a junior committee and finally had the inspiration for the organization of the show itself. Many of his pupils scored blue ribbon wins in the horsemanship classes.

Norbert Yassanye, writing in the Plain Dealers, stated that Miss Cynthia Towell, 9-year-old youngster stole the show the 1st day with her Hi-Ho Silver. "The smudges on her cheeks and her red hair ribbons, a bit awry, made not the slightest difference to Cynthia as she and Silver went out under a broiling sun to take a 1st in the open jumping; 2nd in the hunter hacks; 3rd in the horsemanship and 4th in the pair."

Miss Mary Thompson and Robert Paxton were the winners of competition for boys and girls scoring most points on school-owned horses. Miss Jane Ingalls and Timmie White won the competition for horses privately owned.

4 Saratoga Stakes Draw 140 Nominees

George H. Bull, president of the Saratoga association, has headed each Friday program this year with a steeplechase stake as a feature, that the 'chasing game there may enjoy a better press. Heretofore at the Spa steeplechases have been held on Saturday as joint features with the big flat stakes which carry considerably higher purses and consequently are given more prominence by the turf writers.

Saratoga's four big 'chasing stakes The Shillelah, The North American, The Beverwyck, and The Saratoga drew 140 nominations this year an increase of 29 over 1940. The 140 nominations came from 27 stables, an increase of 9 over 1940, and represent the country's outstanding horses.

The Shillelah with $2,500 added will have its 38th running on Friday, August 8. Won by Ossabaw last year, it has 33 nominations.

The North American with $2,500 added will have its 36th running on Friday, August 15. *Cottesmore won it last year and 32 have been named this year.

The Beverwyck, with $2,500 added will have its 43rd running on Friday August 22. It drew 39 nominations. It is to be hoped that *Cottesmore will be out defend his last year's win.

On Guard-Champion At Watertown

Standing out in a large field and named champion hunter after an almost incredible record of wins, On Guard, entry of C. H. Dimick, of Tenafly, N. J., a beautiful 6-year-old chestnut hunter with four white stockings, ridden by Frank Hawkins, won the tricolor at the Watertown Horse Show on June 23. Jack Prestage, owner of Tipperary Stable, setting of the show held in benefit of the British War Relief, announced that his committee turned over some $300 as result of the success of the benefit.

According to Theodore E. Buell, of the Hartford Courant "There was little that the Jersey hunter On Guard didn't do. The gelding won blues in the Golden Eagle challenge trophy class, in the heavyweight event, in the working hunter competition and in the Professional Horsemen's Assn., challenge trophy class, besides taking second in the class for the William Wright memorial trophy. Miss June Cunningham of Wethersfield, did a creditable job with her 4-year-old grey walk-trot mare, London Fog, and watched her grey jumper, Blue Moon, ridden by Joe Murphy, of Tipperary Stable to several ribbons."

Spring Hope, Bon Nult and Strong Tea were right behind him. Later in the afternoon the blue from the class for hunter hacks gave Cornish Hills a 9 1/2-point lead over his closest rival for top honors.

Saturday's classes found Cornish Hills still in fine fettle and he was awarded his well deserved tricolor after he turned in winning performances to take the blue in the corinthian class and championship preliminary.

The reserve champion, Troop, contented himself with collecting one 4th on Friday, this in the ladies' hunters just to let judges Thomas Assheton, Homer Gray, Forest Ward and Col. James Duke know he was there. On Saturday however, Troop demanded attention and got it when he copped the blue in the class for middle and heavyweight hunters, as well as placing 3rd to Cornish Hills in the corinthian, and 3rd in the championship preliminary.

That corinthian class had amazingly good performances, as well as a touch of slapstick comedy. Although the rain stopped on Saturday the going was heavier and muckier than ever, and it really took something out of a horse going around the course. Mrs. Whitney's Front Royal champion Spring Hope turned in a particularly nice performance in that corinthian to take 2nd while Miss Betty Couzens' Repulsion took 4th ribbon, and afforded the comedy. Repulsion evidently became rather bored with the judging of conformation in this class, for he suddenly was down in the mud, and loving it! Miss Couzens scrambled up, covered with clay to tug vainly at his reins, but Repulsion lay there serenely. After enlisting the aid of the judges, one of whom was also given a muddy outlook, Repulsion was persuaded to regain his feet, and stay up on them.

The 3-and-4-year-old classes had many good ones. J. Edward Barker's Spanish Oak topped them all in the class for 3-year-old hunters, as well as placing 2nd to Bon Nult in the green hunter class. Mrs. D. N. Lee's Glamour Man showed them the way in the 4-year-olds and under class, and placed 2nd in the suitable. Meander Farm's well known Mathematician was there to place 2nd in the 3-year-olds, and pick up several other ribbons, notably the blue in the class for local jumpers.

That valiant Bon Nult, who never never fails to amaze, outlepped them all to win the class open to hunters and jumpers, and then took home another blue to Mrs. Whitney's stable in the class for green hunters, as well as placing second in the touch and out class. Had there been an open jumper championship, Bon Nult undoubtedly would have captured that too.

Quite possibly the above prejudices me to the extent that I almost favor "over at the knees" above a straight formation.

I think St. Simon was the greatest all 'round (breeding and racing) thoroughbred ever foaled.

As I've told you before, you have a grand paper and it keeps its quality well sustained.

Glenview Farm,
Glenview, Ky.,
June 30, 1941.

Dear Sir:
In your last issue, June 27, you gave an account of the mule race run at Oxmoor, June 7. You stated that the winning mule "Muddy Midnight" was out of Dusty Dawn, a thoroughbred mare. This is indeed a sad mistake, as Dusty Dawn, bred and owned by my father, Baylor Hickman, is a bay gelding by *Golden Broom out of Hasty Chick and therefore a half-sister to Dusty Dawn.

Sincerely,
Helen Hickman.

(Editor's Note: Not having a stud book on mules, we were unable to check on the report of the Kentucky 'chasing enthusiast we quoted. We appreciate the correction).

On Guard's Account

June 26, 1941.
Orangeburg, N. Y.

Dear Sir:
As we all enjoy reading your paper so much and find it is the only paper giving a proper account of "horsey news", we thought you would like to read this clipping of On Guard's success on Sunday at the Watertown, N. Y., show. He won both the working hunter championship as well as the conformation championship. Four blue and two red ribbons which is quite a day's work, out of six classes. Wishing your paper continued success,

Yours sincerely,
Frank D. Hawkins.

Earliest Art And Literature Presents Man Engaged In Hunting With Hounds

By EDWARD M. WARD, JR.

Next best to hunting is being able to read about it, so during the warm summer days when hounds are not yet cubbing and beagles are still on their hot weather schedule, it is pleasant as well as instructive to spend some time over sporting literature.

Very early in the history of man, mention is made of the art of hunting with hounds. Hares seem to have been hunted by primitive man for food as well as for the diversion they provided as well as the wild boar and deer. Primitive pictures on stone depict man and dogs resembling both hounds and grey hounds, in the act of hunting. This was before man had learned to form words and write them to transmit thought.

Nimrod, who was a grandson of Noah—was a mighty hunter before the Lord. Genesis X, 9, and long before the time of Christ mention was made of types and breeds of hounds; some writers apparently were good hound men as early as 400 B. C. Xenophon, writing about that time, had much to say about the sport of hare hunting, the training, breeding and management of hounds. Virgil's poetry mentions hunting more than our time.

Early in the fourteenth century A. D. Twicel, who was grand huntsman to King Edward II, wrote L'Art de Venerie which tells details concerning hare hunting during that period.

Shakespeare knew something of hunting and mentions in Venus and Adonis the "timorous flying hare".

William Somerville's poem The Chase is an extraordinary work, beautifully written and full of information. Peter Beckford, though a foxhunter by choice, did keep a pack of harriers in his youth, but says "By inclination I was never a hare-hunter; I followed this diversion more for air and exercise than for amusement—," and then with an apology to brother hare-hunters goes on to say that in his part of the country hare hunting was extremely poor and that he thought it extraordinary that he persevered at it so long. He obviously hunted mounted and thought the best type of hound for hare-hunting to be a cross between the small fox-beagle and the harrier.

Since Beckford there have been a few books written about hare-hunting and beagling, most of them in England. The American books on the subject treat principally of field trials and bench shows or else are merely boosters for patent pills or

Just A Little Care

Wilmington, Del.
June 27, '41.

Gentlemen:

I am enclosing a column from this morning's Wilmington Morning News, written by Mr. Arnold J. Stewart. I think it is more than good and fair, and the thought occurred to me that we all know the truth of the subject but as Mr. Stewart has written about it, it crystallizes in mind.

Sincerely,

J. SIMPSON DEAN,

"HUNTING AND FISHING"

(by Arnold J. Stewart)

From where I sit it is most difficult to determine the extent of predatory damage to our wildlife, especially this time of the year to the young rabbits and quail. Unfortunately, The Delaware Game and Fish Commission does not have a field biologist to make a wildlife research in this state. Of one thing I am sure, despite the belief existing among many of our nimrods, that the red fox, some species of hawks, crows, and other so-called predators are not the main factors in making for the scarcity of rabbits during the open gunning season.

This is no attempt to give the foxes, hawks, or the crows a "clean bill of health". Sure, a fox will snatch a chicken, two or three of foods and consequently are hardly worth reading.

Some of the more worthwhile books are: Thoughts on Hunting, by Peter Beckford; Hare Hunting and Harriers by H. A. Bryden; The Art of Beagling by J. Otho Paget; Hare Hunting by Tantara; Hints on Beagling by John Pawle; Beagling by C. B. Shepherd; Thoughts on Beagling by Peter Wood; Beagling for Beginners by D. Jobson-Scott, O. B. E., M. C., M. C.

These are all published in England. The following are published in America: Forty Years Beagling in the United States by Eugene Lentillon; The Beagle in America and England by H. W. Prentice; the Beagle by Reno B. Cole; Training the Hound by "A Fox Hunter"; Training the Rabbit Hound by Carl E. Smith; Bellman The Beagle and Bellman Carries On, written and illustrated by K. F. Barker are two charming books for children; Hotspur the Beagle by John Vickerman is another; The Rabbit's Revenge written and illustrated by Kurt Wiese is very amusing too.

The great American beagling book has yet to be written and more's the pity. We have a number of excellent works on foxhunting but it remains for some beagler to turn author or author to turn beagler which metamorphosis we hope will take place soon.

Beagling paintings and prints are rare both here and abroad though a few artists recently have done some rather nice things. Cyril Gornainoff made a dozen dinner plates a couple of years ago in colour showing scenes of various packs and countries that are most attractive. K. F. Barker's dry-points are splendid and Victor G. Becker has done one etching that is very nice. Lionel Edwards has made several prints of different packs in England as has T. Ivester Lloyd both of them doing splendid jobs. Would that there were more!

them. He will kill a rabbit, yes, two or three of them, and that equally applies to the hawk. On the other hand we have reports from nationally-known field biologists, who upon examination of the stomach contents of the red fox in hundreds of cases, have found only about two per cent of the fox's food was rabbits.

Let's be fair about this problem of scarcity of rabbits. Let's place a fair share of the blame where it belongs. Modern highways and the motorists. It is useless to attempt to believe that we could stop building or improving our highways to save the lives of our wildlife that stray upon them. However, we can ask the motorists to "Slow Down, Blink Lights, and Blow their Horns."

To prove the point we will take three neighboring states, where thorough study has been made of the rabbit death rate on the highways in those states. Virginia has reported 72,000 rabbits killed on the highways during the year 1940. Maryland has estimated that motorists killed nearly as many rabbits as did the hunters during the 1940 open season. New Jersey has reported some 30,000 as the rabbit death rate on her highways, for the same year. For our own state we have no figures, but it is reasonable to assume that the ratio is about the same.

Until I have definite figures to prove otherwise, I will have to relegate the red fox, the hawks and the rest of the predators in the background. Yes, there is a remedy, just a little cooperation on the part of us motorists. It does not take much effort to slow down, even stop if necessary to save the life of a rabbit on our highways.

Cross-Bred Standard

Harrisburg, Pa.
June 27, 1941.

Dear Sir:

I have noticed in recent years that in the various hound shows, especially New York and Bryn Mawr, a diminishing number of entries in the crossbred section and that in New York last year the crossbreds and English hounds were combined.

In order to increase the entries in the crossbred section I would like to suggest a change in the standard of judging crossbreds. Since the introduction of the rules of the American Foxhounds Club, prohibiting more than 1-16 English blood in an American hound, there are a great many hounds in this country belonging to various recognized packs that can no longer be shown as American hounds. Why not show these hounds in a crossbred class? This would mean, of course, that the judging would have to be more on the American Standard.

We have a pack of hounds at Beaufort containing from 1/8 to 1/4 English blood, and I know of several packs that are about the same. These hounds are very similar to American hounds in appearance and I believe a very good class could be gotten together, thereby increasing the entries in the various hound shows.

Sincerely yours,

E. B. MITCHELL, M. F. H.
Beaufort Hunt.

John Frederick Lawrence has been extremely successful with his TOMMY TUCKER, a Donnottar Farm pony, through the past two seasons. He is pictured winning the children's pony hunter hacks at Fox Chapel Junior Show up in Pennsylvania. TOMMY TUCKER is an excellent small hunter type pony, narrow through the withers that a youngster may sit securely.

Miss Louise Dilworth, Foxcroft School graduate, who went regularly with Middleburg Hounds, is pictured with John Beach's WALUMBE and the prize for the best junior hunter at Fox Chapel. "Jamestown" who recently judged the Hart's Run Show, considered WALUMBE, 9-year-old son of SWEEP ON--LITTLE GRETCHEN, by PETER QUINCE, a "bold goer" and good brush prospect.

Miss Isabel Patterson rode GLOAMING PRIDE to win the touch and out at Fox Chapel, which brought out a goodly number of junior hunter and jumper enthusiasts. Miss Patterson is seen begetting the best from her mount, who is well collected and going cleanly.

MRS. A. E. REUBEN RIDES TWO MOUNTS TO TOLEDO TRICOLORS

THE HUNTINGTON CRESCENT HORSE SHOW HOLDS TRAIL HORSE CLASS

Crescent Stables' MOLLY was the winner of the Trail Horse Class for horses most suitable for 100 mile trail rides. The Class was endorsed by the Green Mountain Horse Assn. Robert Lee Henry is up on the winner; son-in-law of Fred S. Ferguson, chairman of the show. In the line up, l. to r. are Eugene Brennan and GREY BOY; Mrs. Henry Obre on PEARL DIVER; Mrs. Elizabeth Correll's *DALCHOOLIN, Gordon Wright up (the show's conformation hunter champion); Miss Lurline Eberhardt on BILLIE BAXTER; Miss Priscilla Howe on MELODY; Miss Margot Berolzheimer on CORKY O'CLOISTERS; Crescent Stables' MOLLY, Mr. Henry up; and Mrs. William F. Dobbs just mounting FOGERTY FAGAN. Mounting was one of the class' requirements.

THE HUNT PUPPY SHOW

Puppies At Walk Create Friendly Atmosphere Between Farmers And Hunt Throughout Year

B. A. Henry Higginson, M. F. H.

When I first started keeping a pack of hounds, more than forty years ago in America, Puppy Shows were unknown, so far as I can remember. In fact, I do not think the custom, as it is practiced in England, has ever come into general use in America, for the simple reason that the sending out of puppies "to walk" is not generally considered. I remember once visiting Mr. Mather's kennels at Brandywine—in 1907 it was—and asking Will Thompson, his huntsman, how many couple of puppies he had out at walk. He looked at me amazed and then a smile broke over his face.

"Out at walk, Sir?" he said. "I haven't heard that kind of talk since I left the Berkeley. They don't know anything about sending hounds out to walk, or Puppy Shows 'round here. I raise what I can in the kennels." I was somewhat taken aback; for having derived most of my somewhat limited knowledge of foxhunting procedure from English books, I somehow thought that every master sent his puppies out to walk and held a Puppy Show when they came in each Spring. My own kennels at Middlesex were run on British lines; my own huntsman was an Englishman; and I held Puppy Shows from the very beginning; but I think that my procedure was the exception in those days.

Gradually, however, the custom came in, as many English foxhunting customs have; particularly in those packs which are composed of English hounds and carry on in the English manner. I have not been in America for any length of time for more than a dozen years, but I doubt if, even now, the custom is universal, except among a few of the larger hunting establishments. This seems a pity to me; for I know of no more pleasant and democratic way of getting in close touch with the farmers and landowners in one's country, to say nothing of the many advantages it brings to the ultimate production of a first-class pack of hounds. Anyone who has attempted to raise a number of foxhound puppies from youth to maturity, will realize instantly the many advantages which accrue from the system of sending puppies out to walk soon after they are weaned, and "farming them out",—to use an American expression,—with some kind person who is willing to give them, not only the personal care but the liberty which is only to be found outside of kennels, where disease may be rampant. No matter how much care is taken to keep kennel premises spotlessly clean; no matter how freely disinfectants are used, or how big the grass-yards are, no young animal will thrive there as well as it will under conditions which allow it unlimited liberty to roam at will. There may be those critics who will claim that under such conditions a puppy will not become accustomed to proper discipline or will not be scientifically nourished or taken care of. My answer to the first objection is:—that early discipline is not necessary for the future welfare of the puppy. Who does not know Whyte-Melville's famous lines?—

"So eager to find, and so gallant to draw,
"Though a wilder in covert a huntsman ne'er saw,
"Twas a year and a half ere he'd listen to law,
"And many's the leveret hung out of his maw."

Time enough for discipline. Health and activity which tend to bring out the natural hunting instinct, are far more important. As for the second objection, that is up to the master or huntsman, for surely he can take the trouble to visit his "walks" at least once a month and see how the individuals of his future pack are getting on. That is part of a master's work during the Summer,—when ignorant people think he has nothing to do.

Now, if we grant the above premises, I think it becomes evident that the people who are kind enough to help a master by taking his puppies to walk, must be thanked in some way. One cannot offer them money in many cases, and it is far better to create friendly competition among them in the rearing of their charges; for by this means you not only give them something to strive for themselves, but benefit the young hounds as well. I do not know who first thought of holding a Puppy Show, or when it was inaugurated; nor can I find any definite accounts of early Puppy Shows in England. The custom has certainly been going on there for more than seventy-five years, on a scale quite unknown in the Western Hemisphere.

My first experience of an English Puppy Show was at Milton, the estate of George Fitzwilliam, in whose family the ownership of the famous Fitzwilliam Hounds has been vested prior to 1760, to which date the existing Pedigree Book goes back. Though the Mastership has been held pro tem by others than members of the family, the hounds have never, since Fitzwilliam, with whom I was staying, was at that time master, and he honoured me by asking me to help judge the young entry. There were some thirty couple which came before the judges, and most of them were well grown and in superb condition. I was petrified at making my debut in the judging ring before the distinguished masters of hounds who had gathered at that ringside:—Lord Annaly, Mr. Fernie, Mr. Butt Miller, Lord Southampton, Mr. George Evans, Mr. Barclay, Lord Leonfield, and many others were there,—but, thank God, I had two fellow-judges—Mr. Watson, master of the Meath, and Frank Freeman, the famous huntsman of the Pytchley,—in the ring with me, and you may be very sure that I left most of the serious work to them and followed meekly and reverently in their footsteps. I remember that day very well, and the sumptuous luncheon which followed, and the speeches, the loyal toast to the King, which was drunk by all standing, before which no one smoked; then the toasts to the judges, when the poor American master had to make a speech; and toasts to the successful puppy walkers followed; and the prizes were given out by Mrs. Fitzwilliam to the winners—I remember it all as if it was yesterday, for it was my first real puppy show. I remember, too, my last puppy show, which was held at Cat-tistock a few days before I retired from the office which I had held for nine years; the luncheon at my own house which preceded it, at which there were nine masters of hounds, among them the veteran Earl Bathurst, who had motored nearly a hundred miles to do me honour. The Duke of Beaufort and Colonel Spence-Colby and Captain Wellesley-Wesley judged the young entry and afterwards there were nearly five hundred farmers and puppy walkers and their families in the tea tent. I think if American masters who are unaccustomed to puppy shows could have sat with me, at the head table that day and heard the nice things which were said by the farmers who got on their feet, they would realize, as I had never before, the bond of friendliness which is engendered by such occasions.

I have given this little description of two English Puppy Shows—my first and my last—which are very poignant in my memory, because I hoped they would give to the readers of this article something of the atmosphere which should pervade a puppy show, and perhaps explain the importance which it may have in the relationship between master and landowners in a country. It is the master's way of saying, "thank you", at the end of each season; saying, "thank you" not only to the puppy walkers themselves, but also to those members of the field who have supported him and been his companions in the chase. There are some masters who feel that it is a mistake to entertain anyone except puppy walkers—past and present—and a few guests, visiting masters of hounds, etc.; but I have always felt that the bringing together of all those people interested in foxhunting on an occasion of this sort, often brought an added interest to those who perhaps were unable, for one reason or another, to follow hounds in the field. I am sure that it creates a friendly rivalry and often brings additions to the ranks of the puppy walkers themselves.

There are dozens of little details attendant on the holding of puppy shows, but I think that the best advice I can give a master contemplating the inauguration of this pleasant custom, is to turn the details over to his wife,—if he has one—and let her undertake the culinary arrangements and the dressing of the festive board. Let him also consult with his wife in the selection of the prizes, which should be offered for the best three puppies of each sex, and, in my opinion, there should also be special prizes for those walkers who have taken a couple. Still another prize which I have found created a great deal of interest, was one for the best working hound in the entry of the previous year, which was awarded by the huntsman, but presented to the winner at the puppy show.

Finally, there is one thing which I must caution a young master about—For heaven's sake don't leave out anyone important in your puppy show invitations. It might create more trouble than a dozen broken fences. Remember the story of the Wicked Fairy and the trouble she made for the new-born young Prince because she was left out of the Christening Party.

crowds were so dense that many persons were unable to fight their way to the grated windows and retired without the paste-boards they desired.

What is also indicated is the immunity henceforth of race track betting from legal curtailment of suppression.

For over 100 years past—yes, more like two hundred—until within the past decade there had been a constant warfare against it on moral grounds.

If a census be taken of the numbers of different bills that have been introduced into the legislatures of the various states, along with the many that have also been introduced into the federal legislature, in attempts to get nation-wide action, they would run far into the hundreds and, not impossibly, pass the 1,000 mark.

In all these measures it was always the ethical side of the proposition that was stressed most urgently: the need of protecting the public from the evils of gambling, which have always been pictured as one of the greatest menaces of man-kind.

But now—what a difference!

Within the past ten years of economic stress and financial depression our legislators have faced about like a platoon of well-drilled soldiery and instead of conducting a "shooting war" against such practices, have thrown down their guns and taken their whilom enemies to their bosoms with loving words nad and warm caresses.

Into the treasuries of most of the states there is now pouring an unceasing, year-round flood of gold, coming directly from behind those self-same grated windows where, up to about a decade ago, we were told that Satan was ensconced and that the public must at all costs be kept away!

As no state treasury was ever in any condition but that of the horse-leech's daughters, it is not strange, that, with a few abnormal exceptions, the present legislative problem is not how to keep the public away but how to get it up to the aforesaid windows in ever-greater numbers.

As for ethics—they have been eliminated from the equation. While our old friend Mephistopheles, as he stands by attentively twisting the ends of his moustachios, wears his most sardonic smile.

Views On Purpose Of Outside Course For Real Hunters

Noted Authority Finds Present Hunter Courses Far From Hunting Test

BY BETTY BABCOCK
(Reprinted From Horse Show)

What is the ideal outside course for hunters, how should it be ridden and how and by whom should such hunter classes be judged?

These are questions which interest both horse show and hunting people and which, to date, have not been satisfactorily answered.

It is acknowledged these two groups of sportsmen think along very different lines. Those whose primary interest lie in showing horses quite naturally run the shows and provide the bulk of entries, financial support and enthusiasm. However, as hunter and jumper classes are the most popular features of a show, horse show executives are endeavoring to build up hunter classes and one of their chief enticements to hunting people is conveyed by the honeyed phrase, "To be shown over the outside course."

I know what a tempting picture this invariably flashes into my mind's eye, and that I have as yet to see the outside course which seems to be a true and fair test of a hunter.

There are a few stables which produce and show the type of hunter, which never hunts, but successfully competes under the nomenclature around the show circuit. To these specially trained animals of superlative conformation, the outside course which most nearly approximates an inside course is strawberries and cream. It is easily understood why horse show executives desire to have the entries of these famous stables and not so easily understood why they are then puzzled because the hunting people of their communities make few entries.

Speaking for the hunting people, who as a group care far less about winning than having justice done their horses, we would gladly compete against and be defeated by these "hunters" provided the outside courses did honestly give our horses a chance to prove their worth. That in my own locality the horse shows have not awakened to this, is proved by the fact that but 2 percent of the members of our hunt show over outside courses while over 70 percent enter our hunter trials.

As I see it, the purpose of the outside course is to present a testing ground which will fairly and justly bring forth the qualities which a hunter must possess to be a first class horse in the hunting field.

To me these qualities are courage, intelligence, steadiness, speed, the ability to jump at varying paces any obstacle commonly found in the hunting field and the staying quality necessary to hunt two full days a week.

To come down to concrete suggestions an outside course should be not less than half a mile in length, and though in connection with horse shows this would necessarily mean its being so laid out that the spectators could see it all, it must provide good free galloping most of the way. The truest test of a good horse to hounds is that of galloping across a big field on a loose rein and then without any change of pace, jumping a 3'-8" fence in his stride.

Illuminator was the only show hunter I have seen in recent years who could do this and his free way of moving was a real handicap on the outside courses where I saw him perform. An outside course for hunter classes should certainly never penalize the free moving horse. On the contrary, it should show up the poor movers and therefore the course must provide plenty of space for galloping. Insofar as possible, the tract of land for the course should contain the main characteristics of the country hunted by local pack, thus if it is hilly, rough country, the course should have a hill and if deep country with many brooks, it should certainly have a water jump.

The same applies to the choice and placement of obstacles. For example, in our country, timber and slat fences, so placed and of such size as will demand a careful, clever, big jumping horse. In Mr. Plunket Stewart's big open rolling country, where a fine fence with a great deal more foot is needed, an outside hunter course should certainly provide the type of terrain and fences so placed as will bring out the best in the type of horse needed to stay with his hounds.

Horse show organizations wishing to build an outside course which will insure a good local entry as well as entries from the noted hunter show stables would be wise to seek the advice of the hunt officials in their community when choosing and laying out the course.

Generally speaking, 11 obstacles on a half mile course should be the maximum and if 8 of these can be taken at a hunting pace, the remaining 3 should be tricky enough to clearly distinguish the intelligent, well mannered and well balanced hunter from his inferior competitors. A close in-and-out in a lane is always good and other suggestions are a barway of saplings in a simulated wire fence, a blind fence with a drop on the far side, a farm gate onto a lane requiring a sharp turn on landing.

That there should be a time limit, based on a hunting pace, for horses shown over the outside course, seems only reasonable to me and horses not completing the course in the specified time to be disqualified. This would not only simplify the work of the judges but makes the course more fun to ride, and a far more sporting spectacle for the paying public to watch.

A stand about 9'-0" high should be built and so placed that from its platform, the whole course and every obstacle would be clearly visible to the judges. No more than one refusal at a fence on the outside course should be granted and a knockdown in front should immediately disqualify the horse.

North Shore Show Stresses Young Hunter Class

The North Shore Horse Show, with dates of Sept. 4-6, is putting the "accent on youth" again this year as last, featuring the young hunter division, offering stakes for both 5-year-olds and under and 4-year-olds and under. O. E. McIntyre, vice-president, advises that the show will be held as usual on the Old Field Club grounds, near Stony Brook, L. I., and that there will be flood lighted evening sessions.

The young hunter division is a full hunter division, offering all the usual classes from model to championship, including a stake. This year the committee, encouraged by the popular response of exhibitors last year, has added the stake for hunters 4-years-old and under, as well as the stake for horses 5-years-old and under, thus making this division the only one in this popular show to offer two stakes.

Added to the prize list this year will also be a "height for age" handicap class. This will be done by varying the height of the fences for horses, 3-4, and 5-years-old respectively, in an effort to even the fairness of competition of horses of varying degrees of training and ages.

The North Shore is and all hunter and jumper show and while the young division will be the feature, this does not mean that any of the other divisions of the show have been overlooked in the planning. The other divisions, conformation, working, jumper, each offer a stake and a championship, as well as many handsome trophies.

The judging of open jumping classes is a mechanical job but that of hunters, particularly of hunters shown over the outside course, is one requiring hunting experience as well as a good sound eye for a horse. I should like to see in the judges' stand of an outside course, gentlemen or ladies who have both the experience and the eye and see them clad in breeches and boots. The surest way of a judge placing the 1st 4 horses in the right order is to ride them himself.

Whether hunter classes over the outside course should or should not be limited to amateur riders is a hard question. To have it so would certainly be a further inducement for the one horse hunting man and woman to compete but would probably be something of a hardship on the show stables. There is no denying that in riding as in most other sports the professionals have the edge on the amateurs but as the purpose of these classes is to provide tests which will prove the best hunters, who rides them seems of very secondary importance to me.

Also, though I would like to see all such classes ridden in formal hunting attire, a black melton coat under a July sun would be so weakening that the panting riders would rarely live to finish the course.

What is of vital importance is the choice of terrain for the outside course, the wise selection and placing of the fences, the aerial perch for the judges, the judges themselves, and above all else, the acknowledgment by the show executives themselves that the prime purpose of the outside course is to provide the fairest and best possible test for the honest hunter and not the second ring of a two ring horse circus.

Big Severn Wins First

Bred by Samuel D. Riddle, Big Severn was made the 2nd favorite, to Kenneth N. Gilpin's Buck Langhorne, who with H. Cruz up, finished 2nd, 4 lengths away, as both were ridden out. Mrs. Register's colors were carried well up throughout, as Big Severn, fencing in his recent invincible form, went into command leaving the 6th jump to hold sway thereafter. Mrs. Reginald Sinclair's Yemasee, with R. Hayhurst up, challenged the winner at the 12th, but the repeated bobbles of Mrs. Sinclair's color-bearer had taken a toll and he was 14 lengths away at the finish.

Good old Corky of the Philadelphia hunt meetings, owned by J. G. Leiper, Jr., and ridden by Mr. Frank Powers, finished 4th, a 46-1 shot, (the longest of the race) after doing the course steadily, to be out run. Mr. Leiper Jr., had his retaliation however, claiming Mrs. Register's winner, and anticipates campaigning him exclusively at the hunt meetings from now on.

Tragedy struck Delaware Park for the 2nd time this meeting in the steeplechases. E. R. Thom's Cathedral, 9-year-old son of Display, trained by Raymond G. Woolfe, bobbled at the 5th, fell at the 14th and then dropped dead in the in-field while being returned to the judges' stand. A broken blood-vessel was the verdict. Walter Wickes Jr.'s Scurry Along and Miss Deborah G. Rood's recent winner Bahama Knight, both came down, the former at the 10th and the latter at the 3rd hedge.

4 & up steeplechase, cl. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; 2nd: $150; 3rd: $100; 4th: $50. Winner: Mrs. Dorothy P. Register's ch. g., 6, by Big Blaze-Margaret Severn, by Friar Rock. Trainer: Charles R. White. Time: 3:57.
1. Big Severn, 145, H. Clements
2. Buck Langhorne, 145, H. Cruz
3. Yemasee, 147, R. Hayhurst
Nine started. Also ran: J. G. Leiper, Jr.'s Corky, 145, Mr. Frank Powers; Mrs. Reginald Sinclair's Rough Passage, 133, F. Maier; S. J. Holloway's Flycatcher, 135, E. Caldwell; E. R. Thom's Cathedral, 145, J. McGovern, 14th, destroyed; Walter Wickes, Jr.'s Scurry Along, 150, W. King, 10th; Deborah G. Rood's Bahama Knight, 150, T. Roby, 3rd. Won ridden out by 4 lengths; place driving by 10; show driving by 5. 15 jumps.

the red, Monica the yellow, and J. F. McKinnon's Click Clack the white.

The two horsemanship classes were large, with Miss Jane S. Hall winning the novice and Miss Donna Rodgers the open. In the latter event Miss Hall had the white with Robert Murphy and John Murphy Jr. having the red and blue, respectively. Both Miss Rodgers and Miss Hall rode saddle ponies; Robert Murphy a thoroughbred, Four Winds, and John Murphy Jr. a saddle horse.

Both of the judges are good friends of mine. I've known them each a long time and have the greatest respect for their opinions, but I do feel that Frederick K. von Lambeck's performance with Adios in the western class entitled him to the blue instead of the red. In his demonstration he removed the bridle while at an extended gallop around the ring, guided and controlled to a stop Adios with just a rein around the horse's neck which to my mind revealed more training and more horsemanship than did Raymond Heinrich with his Black Pete. Probably I missed those details that led the judge's to decide the class as they did.

Several saddle classes were filled well with the entries of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rodgers winning each of their three events, and M. Roy McGregor and John B. Deavitt Jr. as well as Porter A. Wilson all seeing their horses perform well and winning.

Some Comments On Gymkhanas And The Importance Of Riding Picnics

Summertime is the season of gymkhanas. This week's mail brought notice of three to be held in the near future within easy riding distance. These occasions offer the opportunity for friendly contests, and will in many cases be pleasantly remembered long after horse shows and more formal occasions have been forgotten.

Two popular academies are having picnic rides, the local Junior Hunt is getting up a schedule of cross-country runs, and a riding family has sent out invitations for an open Fourth of July gymkhana with contests suited to all ages.

We imagine such events could be duplicated in many sections of the country at this time of the year. Somewhat on the lighter side of riding activities, they fill their own niche, and it is to be hoped that none gets so caught in the routine of horse shows that he cannot participate in some of these thoroughly enjoyable events.

We wanted very much to see the Gymkhana which was held in Greenwich on the Wednesday before the Ox Ridge Show, and did manage to take in the last half of it. It was quite typical, a more or less impromptu affair, largely managed by the children themselves. Signs with letters tipping at odd angles, betraying juvenile handiwork, directed riders to the Samuel Meek estate, where a space had been cleared in the apple orchard.

Miss Pixie Meek engineered the preliminaries, and Mr. Theodore Wahl of the Round Hill Stables acted in the capacity of a combination Judge and Master of Ceremonies. He kept the fourteen events moving right along, and we cannot remember when we have seen a group of young riders having a better time. All ages of children were present, from beginners on lead lines to experienced show ring riders.

Columbus Changes Horse Show Dates To August 2-3

Dates for the 7th annual Columbus Horse Show have been changed from Sept. 13-14 to August 2-3, Saturday and Sunday. According to Vincent P. Lester, secy., prize lists will go forward by mail on Saturday, July 5.

Four championships will stud the card with tricolors given for the green and novice, the working, the conformation hunter and the jumper. The stakes will include the $100 for green or novice; the $200 for the working hunter; the $300 conformation hunter stake and the $300 for jumpers.

Judges who have accepted invitations to officiate are G. M. Carnochan, New York; Otto Furr, Middleburg and Raymond H. Norton, Washington, D. C. Jumper scorers will be Frank B. O'Mahoney, Silver Springs, Md., Lt. Col. James Duke, War Dept., Washington, D. C.

Two of the several classes added to this year's program are a bareback come class, a sweepstake affair with the American Challenge trophy going to the winning rider; the pair of hunters tandem, with riders in full hunting attire.

fish flag at the entrance disclosed the benefit nature of the affair. It was all held on a very modest scale, admission, five cents, refreshments five cents. Nevertheless numerous recounts of the money at the end of the day finally brought agreement that the satisfying amount of $24.70 had been raised for British relief.

After musical chairs and the various potato and obstacle races, it was decided to stop at the rather early hour of five thirty, as many of the children had to hack five miles over the roads back to the Round Hill Stables.

We suppose there are children who never go to such an affair. Of them we think rather sadly, for they are missing a great part of the fun of riding. We call to mind the case of one young rider who won many blues in the show ring a few years ago in horsemanship classes. Invitations were sent her for various country affairs, but her schedule never would permit her to get to them. She explained, she could not come on Saturdays, because then there would either be a horse show, or she would have to be resting her horses for a Sunday show; Mondays she had to rest from whatever show she had been to on the week end, while the other days of the week there were lessons to keep in shape for the coming horse shows!

We were not surprised to learn she had dropped out of showing last year, for anything overdone soon wears itself out. In such a program where is the fun and pleasure of riding? As a matter of fact, a gymkhana or two would have done this particular child more good than many riding lessons, for the main fault of her riding was stiffness, which more informal riding might have overcome.

Any of these outdoor events makes for a firmer seat, a very desirable asset. Then there is the very important angle of good sportsmanship, which is naturally and casually acquired in the field. English children get a great deal of this sort of thing, and anyone who has competed with either English or Canadian children cannot fail to be impressed by their good sportsmanship, whether on horseback or not, and also their practical handiness with horses.

A few years ago, when riding in Canada, we met an English riding instructor. He had just come up from the States where he had taken in a few horse shows, and he was surprised at the difference between the riding of children here and that to which he had been accustomed in England. He felt here too much showing experience and too little practical riding was developing a stiff and unnatural lot of riders. He did feel that we had developed a much more satisfactory hunter seat, however, and was much impressed by the well groomed show horses, and the smart appearance of children in classes. But whenever he spoke of horsemanship classes, he couldn't get over commenting on what this rider or that would do if his horse started to bol' in the field.

Incidentally, what has become of the bareback classes at our horse shows? The last one we saw was one at the Montclair Show last winter. Apparently several summer shows omitted them this year. We regret seeing them go out, for bareback riding is an excellent aid in helping one gain good balance, which is so important for either a good hunter or saddle seat.

Perhaps the place for bareback riding is in the gymkhana, rather than at a show, but children will work hardest for what they think they are apt to encounter in the ring.

There is no question that the show ring is helping to set a high standard of horsemanship, and really fosters good riding, but gymkhanas and similar informal events have a supplementary place, and teach lessons that never could be learned in a horse show.

HORSE MAKES SPEEDY RECOVERY AND WINS COMMONWEALTH HANDICAP

The facts are on record! Cape Cod, second favorite finished sixth on June 9 in the sixth race at Suffolk Downs. The chart reported the performance as follows: "Cape Cod lacked speed to enter into serious competition and was far back throughout."

One week later Cape Cod with dollar odds at $6.00 won the Commonwealth Handicap in record time. As it was reported: "Cape Cod, quickest to begin, met stern opposition from General Jack during the first half-mile, disposed of him, drew clear and kept under vigorous riding through the stretch, held Little Beans safe to the finish."

Questioned by the stewards of Suffolk Downs following the unequal performance of the horse in the races of June 9 and June 14, Dr. H. M. Lewis, well known veterinarian, reported: "I had the care of the horse since Tuesday morning, June 10, and applied antiseptic packs. After a satisfactory workout on Friday, the horse was ready to run, the soreness having been removed. Accordingly I advised Mr. Archer to run Cape Cod in the stake."

VETERINARY PACK

The antiseptic pack to which Dr. Lewis referred is, of course, his own discovery, Dr. H. M. Lewis Antiseptic Veterinary Pack, which is now standard equipment in all successful stables.

This therapeutic remedy has shown remarkable results in ridding horses of soreness, bruises, inflammation, wounds, swelling, septic poisoning and other ailments. Dr. Lewis's Pack is rapidly growing in popularity and is used by an increasing number of trainers, veterinarians and horsemen.

Make it a point to order a supply now—so you, too, can employ this outstanding remedy on your horses when they are troubled.

Belair's Yearlings

William Woodward's Belair Stud yearling consignment for the Saratoga Sales is now at Mr. Woodward's Maryland farm. The 13 sons and daughters of Omaha, *Foray II Alcazar, Gallant Fox, Snark, *Boswell are out of 6 *Sir Gallahad III, 1 Gallant Fox and other celebrated Belair Stud matrons.

Not A Hound Spoke

A discussion of Field Trials for recognised hounds brought forth an account of an embarrassing moment for Colonel Pleas B. Rogers when he was holding trials with the Fort Riley Hounds. A drag was laid and the first pack went over the line well. The next pack was to go over a similar drag, lightly laid to simulate a fox trail. Not a hound spoke. For an hour the master worked his hounds back and forth while spectators looked on and wondered. Finally, much perplexed, the master gave up and judges conferred. Apparently the drag man had an enemy in the Fort Riley outfit who had something to do with the hounds. He put one over on the boys, but it was a doing that none could swallow with equanimity.

"Happy", Unhappy

The James E. Ryans' little daughter, Una Ryan, "Happy" they call her, is particularly partial about Mrs. James C. Clark's *Little Cottage II. This 10-year-old son of Cottage won two $1,000 claiming chases in a row at Belmont, then ran thrice 3rd prior to his winning outing in the $1,000 claimer at Delaware last Friday, June 27. *Little Cottage II's trainer feared a claim. "Happy" was very sad, crying with the thought, then rejoiced doubly when Mrs. Clark's veteran came home the winner and there was no halter-man around. She can still ride *Little Cottage II, her favorite mount on a lead-line shank, jogging and cantering. (It wasn't Mrs. Clark's well known turquoise blue and cherry striped sleeves which *Little Cottage II flashed down the stretch to win under. Instead it was the R. K. Mellon deep blue and scarlet striped sleeves which Jockey J. Magee wore. Mrs. Clark's having been mislaid along the way).

Whirlaway—Rushaway

The great Whirlaway is going to the Chicago countryside to compete for the rich stakes there this month, thence to return to competition at Saratoga. His name in Chicago campaigns brings to mind that of the triple derby winning Rushaway. This son of Haste—Roseaway, now an 8-year-old and in training currently at Hollywood Park where his owner Alfred G. Tarn still handles him, started his 1936 season in Florida, shipped to New Orleans to the Fair Grounds and won the Louisiana Derby on March 29. Then he came north and on Friday May 22, he showed Whirlaway form, galloped to victory in the Illinois Derby, an hour and a half later, scarcely before he had cooled out, was enroute to Cincinnati, to run in the Latonia Derby the following day. How he ran to win his 2nd successive derby in two days, carrying 121 lbs., to tie the track record at Latonia in 2:02 3-5 is all a matter of history. He the favorite, beat the Headleys' Hollywood, also Bow and Arrow. In his Illinois Derby he had, to step 1 1-8 miles in 1:50 4-5 to win, with 120 lbs. up to beat Count Morse and Reel On. Rushaway won some $37,280 for his owner, who obtained him as a 2-year-old from Joseph E. Widener. He never did anything by halves this Haste son. He broke his maiden and set a Tropical Park record of 1:36 3-5 in doing it. In addition to his three Derby wins, Rushaway was narrowly beaten by The Fighter in the Texas Derby, and by Memory Book in the Yankee Stakes at Suffolk.

Red Jewell Like Andy K.

Though Red Jewell has won no Futurity, his connections are having all the Andy K. runout trouble they want and but recently his trainer Carl "Slim" Roles has found a device, an Irish bit, which all but keeps the Projectile son straight. The grey gelding, out of the War Whoop mare War Jewell, bred by Robert C. Winnill, of Warrenton, recently went a mile in 1:37 1-5, the day he was disqualified for bearing out on Buckhorn Creek. He has won 4 out of 5 of his starts, but for the disqualification would have a 1000 per cent average. George Strate, trainer for Mr. Winnill, took Red Jewell west, where he was claimed. Projectile raced for J. Walter Salmon, is now standing in the U. S. Remount service. A son of *Swift and Sure, he won $24,390 as a 2-year-old, winning the Endurance 'Con at Bowie among others. Red Jewell recently beat Battle Colors and Porters Cap, candidates for the Hollywood Derby this Saturday. Red Jewell is not an eligible.

Lou Smith's Rockingham

New England's 3rd chapter of horse-racing in 1941, will be recorded as Lou Smith's Rockingham Park swings into action on July 21 and carries on through August 9. Narragansett Park has had its spring session; Suffolk Downs is finishing its 60 day meeting; now "The Rock", at once the smallest and oldest of the modern New England tracks, will hold its 9th annual summer fixture of 18 days. Purses will amount to more than $150,000. Henry A. Parr III, treasurer of Pimlico will lead his name and horse-flesh; "Whitey" Abel will have his Honey Cloud handicapper going up from Delaware; Dixiana Stable will ship its string from Detroit, including Sirocco; W. E. Johnson will send Robespierre and others; Tom Waller has 10 headed for Salem N. H. Stake nominations closed Monday, July 6.

Charles Town Trainers

Charles Town training honors, through the end of June, went to Everett Brining, of Hagerstown, Md., with 14 winners, while close up were John Bosley, Jr. of Monckton, Md., with 13, and Percy C. Randolph of Berryville, Va., with 12. The meeting which closed its portals on Saturday, July 5, has Mrs. George Saportas, Jr. of Monckton, Md., as its leading lady trainer—with 4 wins.

Spinach's New Owner

The 14-year-old Spinach, who had a racing career, which was finally to run to 139 efforts and 21 wins for a total of $127,320 will find the remainder of his days one of ease at Arthur White's farm at Middleburg Va. There he will be pensioned as the result of Christopher M. Greer Jr.'s generous bid of $50 for the veteran son of Sir Martin—Sweet Thyme, put up in the Charles Town (W. Va.) paddock auction last Monday, July 1 by Thomas T. Mott. This was a "sympathetic bid" by Mr. Greer, who did not wish to see Spinach put to further racing. Mr. Greer informed Mr. White, ignorant of the sale, of the purchase. Charles M. Feltner cried the sale, called for a $100 bid on "One of the best horses America has ever known", got an offer of $35 from someone who had further racing in mind, then came Mr. Greer Jr.'s $50 and there were no further offers. Spinach came to racing under the Madden silks but won most of his $127,320 for William Ziegler, Jr. as a 3-year-old, when he took down the Latonia Championship Stakes at 1 2-4 miles for $31,675. Spinach whipped the mighty Sun Beau and Dr. Freeland in the Havre de Grace 'Cap in 1930. In 1935, Arthur White of Middleburg, bought Spinach, turned him to 'chasing, when he ran thrice 3rd in stake competition, to Red Flash and Amagansett in the Beverwyck 'Cap; to the great Bushranger and Rideway in the Charles Appleton and to Irish Bullet and Rideaway in the Corinthian, before taking the Chevy Chase 'Cap at Laurel, when he beat Snap Back, Birmingham and others. Mr. Mott claimed him in $1,000 'chasing competition.

Audrain County's

Walter G. Staley, chairman of the Audrain County Fair Assn., has advised that the annual fixture will be held on August 12-15, in Mexico, Mo. Seven hunter and 3 jumper classes are included, with Brig. Gen. Harry D. Chamberlin, Fort Riley, Kan., judging.

Amusing Not Amusement

In the advertisement of Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's Milkman yearlings last week, The Chronicle erred, carrying a brown filly by the great son of the Cudgel horse as a daughter of Amusement, by *Hourless. Amusement is the grand-dam of the filly Mrs. Stewart is sending to Saratoga. Amusing, by Stimulus—Amusement is a 9-year-old matron of Rolling Plains Farm, the dam of winners, including her first by Peanuts.

Riding Instructions

John Bosley Jr.'s *Rougemont fell

up at Delaware Park when Phara-bang fencing cleanly and responding readily won in a "hollow fashion." Jockey N. Brown was up again on *Rougemont the following Friday, June 27, when he finished the son of Exeter in the place spot back of Mrs. James C. Clark's *Little Cottage II. The day was a terrific scorcher. Mr. Bosley Jr., was saddling down at Charles Town. His father, Mr. John Bosley Sr., put the 'chasing jock up, with: "Norman, it is a hot day, take your time going to the front."

In the Army Now

Paul Mellon, enthusiastic foxhunter, who with Mrs. Mellon campaigns a string of 'chasers in the name of Rokeby Stable, volunteered his services to Uncle Sam and he's a private in the Army now. Exempt under the present regulations of the Selective Service Act., Paul still felt he should do his bit and so turned up at Richmond, Va., last Monday morning among a bus load of inductees for Camp Lee. He has hopes of getting to Fort Riley Kan., and the officer's school there.

6th Leny Manor

"The oldest Leny Manor horse show in the world", so reads the 6th annual Leny Manor prize list, is to take place on Saturday July 26 near Warrenton, Va. It is "still to be held in the cow yard"—"all riders, officials and judges to be 21 years and under—proceeds to go to the Fauquier County Tuberculosis Assn." There'll be 21 horse and pony classes, Jane Calvert is secretary, and advises that all entries close July 18. Entrance fees are $1.

1st Middleburg Jr.

Anne Clay Bayly, Barbara Iselin, C. Oliver Iselin III, Ridgley White and others of the Middleburg countryside are combining to put on the 1st Middleburg Junior Horse Show, Saturday, August 9. There will be 17 classes, the Foxcroft School ring will be used and net proceeds will go to the American Red Cross.

Preakness Closing

The 1943 Preakness will close for entries this fall, Monday, Sept. 15, instead of as in other years, when entries have not been received later than mid-July. In response to many breeders, Matt L. Daiger, secy., of the Maryland Jockey Club has wisely postponed the closing until September.

Brann's Yearlings

The master of Glade Valley Farm, near Frederick, Md., is shipping to Saratoga's yearling sales for the first time this August. Five *Challenger II's are included in the 7 lot consignment, to be sold Friday, August 15. A listing follows:

ch. c. by *Challenger II—Flag Trick, by Pen-nant.

Reg Smith Departs

*Reginald F. Smith, who has worked long and hard with The Chronicle for the past several years, thought he was going to be drafted last month so rushed to join the Navy. Coming a cropper on the height and weight specifications, he came around into a nice offer from the Hubert Phillips-es, co-editors of the Virginia Breeder, and started his managing editor connections with a will by covering the Culpeper Horse Show over the 4th.

New Thoroughbred

The California Breeders Assn., has at long last set about publishing its own magazine. The new "Thoroughbred", a monthly magazine devoted to thoroughbred breeding in California, came through the mails this week, taking the place of the "The Thoroughbred and Thoroughbred Breeding", which was privately printed in Los Angeles for the past 5 years. The object of the new mag is to establish a medium for the exchange of information among members of the California Assn., and serve to provide the former subscribers of Thoroughbred Breeding with an improved and more comprehensive publication. Covering all phases of thoroughbred breeding, it will use its influence for the breeding and raising of better horses and the improvement of conditions among breeders upon whose efforts racing is dependent. Walter Wells is Pres., of the California Breeders Assn., Charles S. Howard is vice-pres., Directors include: Harry "Bing" Crosby, Henry P. Russell, Charles E. Perkins, Walter H. Hoffman, Jr., Carleton F. Burke, James Rolph III, Harry N. Isenberg, and Charles E. Cooper.

Flashing Steel

Out in Caliente last Sunday, June 29, two Maryland-breds came home, with Crack Brigade's Crackade winning for owner J. G. Anwiller as a favorite and then Flashing Steel, son of Sir Greysteel, took the most colorful and best run race witnessed is sometime there, a 1-1-8 mile allowance. Owned by John Ritcor, Flashing Steel, "listed in the records as a roan gelding, but so white that he appears to be an Arabian, rippled along to win the 7th from a band of consistent routers in such easy fashion and so beautifully that fans gave him the biggest ovation in months." Flashing Steel, an 8-year-old, won 3, was twice 2nd and once 3rd. Mr. Ritcor's Yammer, 6-year-old son of *Omar Khayyam, also ran on Sunday, in the 5th race, but was knocked to his knees in the gates, to get away 9th, finish resolutely for 4th money. Both have run over Caliente fences, the latter, Yammer, has won there.

Lots of Grouchers

The late Groucher, who stood near Charles Town, W. Va., for several seasons, had sons and daughters win 13 races at this track this past spring meeting. Some Groucher and Grouchy were 3 time winners: Groucher's Boy, won twice; Engles Wonder and Engles Charm each scored twice; and Ole Grouch won once. On July 1, Mrs. Crompton Smith's Ole Grouch, out of Clifton's Madge, and bred by Dr. L. M. Allen, of Berryville, and Dr. Harry B. Langdon's Grouchy, won successive heats, the 7th and 8th races. This was Ole Grouch's 2nd start. He was a foxhunting hunter last season, as was Engles Wonder.

Mokatam's Selalbeda

Paragon Stable's Selalbeda, 3-year-old son of Mokatam—Acacia, turned in a creditable 1-1-16 at Aqueduct, in a $2,000 allowance affair, while besting a field of 10, to win as the favorite, though drifting out in the stretch. Mokatam stands at the O'Keefe Pine Brook Farm, near Warrenton, Va. This was Selalbeda's 2nd purse at Aqueduct, as he graduated there this spring.

Brennan's Big Shift

Last week in commenting upon Edward J. Brennan's handicapping at Delaware Park, where he has been officially for the past month, and has allotted weights so carefully that he brought home a dead heat in The Big Elk, typographical errors jumped up in The Chronicle's columns. This dead heat handicap was the FIRST of 1941 and not the "last" as stated last week. Mr. Brennan's biggest weight shift in steeplechasing in his career as a handicapper came following Mandingham's win in the Georgetown Stake. Rokeby Stable's flyer was boosted 10 lbs., and the great Louis B. Mayer's Ossabaw was lessened 5 lbs., a shift of 15 lbs.

Milwaukee This Week

The Oconomowoc Hunt horse show is to be held this Friday and Saturday, July 11-12 on the Pabst Farms near Milwaukee. Many juniors of the locale will take part. Bradlee, Russell, Marion and Lolly

Van Brunt; Mary Everet, Sally Downing, Patsy Fitz Gerald, Stanley Stone Jr., Alice Wild, niece of Mrs. Orton L. Prime, Virginia Smith, Janet Hansen, Dick Friedlander, Connie and Nancy Chester and William Chester, Jr. Up from Morton Grove, Ill., will come Jeanne Lee Hester; Sally and Anne Ordway and Betty Jo Jarvis will come from Augusta, Mich.; John Jelke III, will bring Royal Rebel and others from Lake Forest; Joy Salisbury will bring her Alaska up from Lake Forest; Nancy Buchanan, of Lake Forest, is already on the lake with her parents De Witt Buchanans and Betty-Lou Thronson, Suzanne Thronson and Madison and Fritz Ingram will come from White Bear Lake, Minn. Betty Mead, daughter of Mrs. Edward H. Bennett will show Carnell from Lake Forest's Mill Creek hunt country, as will Mrs. W. R. Odell, Jr., bring First Whip. Stanley Luke will come from Hinsdale, Ill., with Hider-ton and Mrs. Montgomery Orr will bring Shamrock's Precaution from Wayne, Ill., as will Mrs. Louis Swift, Jr., bring Frame Up and Range Rattler. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Hubbard will send her Clifton's Chataleine up from Lake Forest and Mrs. William B. McIlvain will show her Meshera.

Fauquier's U. S. O.

Mrs. George L. Harrison, well known Virginia-breeder, mistress of Blue Ridge stud, which thoroughbred nursery was started by the late Admiral Cary Grayson and has *Happy Argo standing there, was recently made chairman of the Fauquier County (Va.) chapter of the United Service Organization. Mrs. Harrison is shipping to the Saratoga Sales again, as Blue Ridge stud has for the past decade. This year Blue Ridge will offer 3 colts and 1 filly. The colts are by Rosemont, Bold Venture and *Challenge II. The filly is by Balladier. Other officers of the U. S. O. in Fauquier are Mrs. Helen Hinkleley, secretary, well known master of the Old Dominion Hounds (Va.) and Mrs. William H. Emory, chairman of special gifts committee, wife of the well known horseman, sportsman and cross country rider.

Baby Dumpling—du Pont

After Baby Dumpling, the 2-year-old son of Discovery, purchased last August at the Saratoga Sales, scored his 3rd straight, his 2nd in a row at Delaware Park, last Saturday, July 5. William du Pont Jr., persuaded the Arthur Whites to part with him. This flaxen maned and light creamy colored chestnut came home splashing in the mud at Delaware, after insurance of $10,000 was written on him the previous day. Mr. White paid $1,100 for the yearling from Charles W. Williams' consignment and the juvenile has won already more than $2,000.

Eternal Trio

Thrice have they run all but 1-2-3. French Horn broke his maiden on June 25 at Detroit, carrying 112 lbs, when he won by a neck and Hi Winnie, 109, and Jota, 107, trailed in order. Again on July 4, this trio finished in the same order with French Horn carrying an additional 2 lbs., 114, and the others weighted the same. As in his maiden win, there were 12 in the field. On July 8, R. A. McConnell Jr.'s 3-year-old son of *Aethelstan II—Mad Beth, by Mad Hatter, bred by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, carrying 116, won his 3rd race in his 8th start this season. This time Jota came in to place and Hi Winnie to show.

Johnson City Show

John S. Donald is putting his energies back of the Johnson City horse show, to be held near this Tennessee city on Sept. 1. The Forest Park stables there have been enlarged to take care of 70 horses. Most of the horses in the locality are gaited, but Mr. Donald is very keen to promote the hunter division in the show there next year.

87 More for N. Y.

When Saratoga comes to an end on the 30th of August, there will be still 54 more days of racing in New York state with the fall meetings at Aqueduct, Belmont, Jamaica, and Empire. Aqueduct plans to hold both steeplechasing and hurdle racing as well. This Association will have stakes for both brush and hurdle horses. With Empire closing on July 26, 13 more days there and Saratoga's 30 days, there's 87 more days of racing in New York State this year.

Ohio State Fair

Prize lists for the 91st Ohio State Fair, including a night horse show, are out, with dates scheduled for August 23-29 inclusive. The premium list shows $18,000 in cash and plate, and entries close August 16.

More Home Wools

Colin MacLeod, Jr., who so successfully sent the yearling by *Belfonds to Saratoga last August, who was later to equal track record, at Aqueduct in the mud, in the name of Home Wolf, has a consignment of 7 yearlings going to the Spa this year. Three are by *Belfonds, three are by Pilate and the other is by Milkman. The gr. c. by *Belfonds—Love Match, by Fair Play is a half brother to Disapproved and Love Mark. The gr. c. by *Belfonds—Home Time, by High Time is the full brother to Home Wolf, who went 5 furlongs in .59 1-5. The b. f. by *Belfonds—Galanterie, by Gallant Fox is out of a sister to the winner Princess Stone and half-sister to Whiskolo winner of $21,640. The Pilate colt is out of Movie Lass, by Kai-Finn, a half-brother to the winner Farmlands. The two Pilate fillies are out of *Litany, by Abbott's Trace and *Donna Juana, by Hurray On. The *Litany filly is a half-sister to Secular, Sexton, Affirmation and Call-It. The *Donna Juana is a half-sister to 5 winners. The Milkman colt is out of Question, by Fair Play, half-brother to Quel Jeu, winner of the Nursery, Remsen and Hollis stakes.
